AMI IN IRELAND

Information on Ami in Ireland

Ami, first and foremost is an urban mobility solution. Made for short journeys, this 100% electric quadricycle is a cost effective, safe alternative to public transport in towns and cities with two seats. Find out how Ami works in Ireland below:

LICENCE

Despite being a quadricycle, Ami exceeds the limit for an AM licence type. Therefore, a category B licence (standard car licence) is required to drive Citroën Ami.

INSURANCE

Similar to the licence category, Ami requires car insurance in Ireland. Quotes are available from most insurance providers.

MOTOR TAX

As an electric vehicle, Ami is subject to road tax at the lowest band - €120 annually.

CHARGING

In Ireland, Ami will be delivered with a type 2 charging adapter for use with wall boxes.

LEFT HAND DRIVE

In order to make Ami as affordable as possible, it will arrive in Ireland exclusively in left hand drive. This has many benefits including kerbside exit when parking, making it safer to exit Ami.
